

A Marriage Minute

A simple help to make your marriage just a little better this week.

"Where there is no revelation the people cast off restraint, but blessed is he who keeps the law" - Proverbs 29:18

Do you realize that you've never gone anywhere without first having a vision of that place in your mind? Oh sure, you may have found yourself in places without first seeing them, but that certainly wasn't part of a plan. That was happenstance. The question we need to ask as we begin this new year is, "Will we let life just happen this year and see where we end up, especially in our marriage, or will we seek a vision?" Without a vision you never know if you're on course, because you don't even know where the course is! Anxieties don't come from being off course; they come from not knowing where the course is!

Don't live your life by accident this year. Seek God for a vision for your marriage and your life. What does God desire in this new year? More quality time? Better control of your finances? More time with the children? More sex? Whatever it is. Seek a vision together. Write it down. Pray about it. Then be "doers" as God enables you. You may not see the entire vision fulfilled, but at least you'll be headed in the right direction. Otherwise, take my word for it, you will go in the wrong direction. Let's not live this new year by happenstance. Let's seek God's vision and be restrained by what that vision calls for, and 2008 will be a year of greater glory—His glory!

Prayer for both of us: Lord help us to see clearly what you desire for us in the New Year. Then give us the hearts to be restrained by the vision that we might see it come to pass.

This Couples devotional is brought to you by Marriage & Family Savers Institute. Visit them on the web at www.marriageandfamily.org.

A Marriage Minute

A simple help to make your marriage just a little better this week.

"Where there is no revelation the people cast off restraint, but blessed is he who keeps the law" - Proverbs 29:18

Do you realize that you've never gone anywhere without first having a vision of that place in your mind? Oh sure, you may have found yourself in places without first seeing them, but that certainly wasn't part of a plan. That was happenstance. The question we need to ask as we begin this new year is, "Will we let life just happen this year and see where we end up, especially in our marriage, or will we seek a vision?" Without a vision you never know if you're on course, because you don't even know where the course is! Anxieties don't come from being off course; they come from not knowing where the course is!

Don't live your life by accident this year. Seek God for a vision for your marriage and your life. What does God desire in this new year? More quality time? Better control of your finances? More time with the children? More sex? Whatever it is. Seek a vision together. Write it down. Pray about it. Then be "doers" as God enables you. You may not see the entire vision fulfilled, but at least you'll be headed in the right direction. Otherwise, take my word for it, you will go in the wrong direction. Let's not live this new year by happenstance. Let's seek God's vision and be restrained by what that vision calls for, and 2008 will be a year of greater glory—His glory!

Prayer for both of us: Lord help us to see clearly what you desire for us in the New Year. Then give us the hearts to be restrained by the vision that we might see it come to pass.

This Couples devotional is brought to you by Marriage & Family Savers Institute. Visit them on the web at www.marriageandfamily.org.